

A circular diagram representing a cell. The outer boundary is a thick black line. Inside, there are several smaller, irregular shapes representing organelles. Some are labeled with letters: 'A' for a large, dark, oval-shaped nucleus; 'B' for a smaller, dark, oval-shaped mitochondrion; 'C' for a small, dark, oval-shaped lysosome; 'D' for a small, dark, oval-shaped peroxisome; 'E' for a small, dark, oval-shaped vacuole; 'F' for a small, dark, oval-shaped vesicle; 'G' for a small, dark, oval-shaped Golgi apparatus; 'H' for a small, dark, oval-shaped endoplasmic reticulum; 'I' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cytoskeleton; 'J' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell membrane; 'K' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell wall; 'L' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell matrix; 'M' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell cytoplasm; 'N' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell nucleus; 'O' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell mitochondrion; 'P' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell lysosome; 'Q' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell peroxisome; 'R' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell vacuole; 'S' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell vesicle; 'T' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell Golgi apparatus; 'U' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell endoplasmic reticulum; 'V' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell cytoskeleton; 'W' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell membrane; 'X' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell wall; 'Y' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell matrix; 'Z' for a small, dark, oval-shaped cell cytoplasm.
